Not to mention neighbors and friends immediately compliment you house the minute the open the door. Door closers are not only used in residential houses but in offices too. We used to get irritated opening a bothersome door that gets stuck. Even with heavy doors that are very hard to open and caused us to lose our balance opening it. It is quite embarrassing knowing people saw you pulling the door all your might and stumbling on your way out. If not too heavy and too hard to pull doors could also be too light and swings out or in easily. In cases when you can not prop a door open to let a pram or a wheelchair through, and there is no one around, you will end up propping it with your body and pull all your might. That goes with deliverymen too who wheels in boxes of stuff and running on a tight schedule. This cause wasted time and that almost always means losing money. How difficult is that? I can just imagine children, ever wanting to be grown ups, insisting on opening the doors themselves. Then you would have to deal with injuries or the non-stop wailing of your child. That can surely ruin a nice day. Naturally, a company or establishment is liable for accidents that happen to anyone within their vicinity. Installing door closers prevent any unneeded casualties that the establishment will have to pay for and allows parents, clients or anyone else to go in and out without problems. Regulating the movement of doors installing a time delay to close solves so many of these problems not only to owners but to people they deal with everyday too. Save yourself or your company the unnecessary expenses by installing door closers to all doors. Door closers have different types that will be good for home use, offices, banks, buildings, etc. Adjustments can be done on them in cases where there is an increase on the flow of traffic in certain areas that the doors open up to. They also last for years before a replacement is needed.
