

Using Dog Food Coupons to Cut Pet Care Costs

Your dog is there for you the way that nobody else can be. He is happy to see you every time you walk in the door. He would lay down his life for yours. He will always be your best friend. So you want to buy him the best, healthiest dog food out there, because he deserves the same care from you that you get from him. But unless you have 1000 dog food coupons for free bags of food on hand, feeding your pup the best can really take a bite out of your wallet.

And the bigger your dog is, the more you will spend. If you do not use dog food coupons, you can spend upwards of $400 a year if you buy one 30 pound bag of food per month. Do you like to feed your dog the tasty canned stuff, too? That is another $400 to $1000 a year for one to three cases of 13 oz. cans a month. Yes, your pup is your best buddy, but... that is a lot of hundreds to spend feeding him.

Fortunately, there are ways to save money and still buy the premium dog food that your dog deserves. And the best one is using dog food coupons. Available both through those newspaper coupon inserts and on the internet, dog food coupons are an option all dog owners should consider. Because while you can glance at dog food coupons and think that the couple of dollars of savings does not mean much, the truth is that they add up. Particularly when you use dog food coupons online.

Using Dog Food Coupons on the Net

Dog food is expensive, bulky, and not a lot of fun to buy. Which is why purchasing it on the internet is so popular. You just visit a website, click the food your dog likes best, and have it delivered to your door. It seems like a great way to make buying dog food more convenient. But with online dog food coupons, it is also a great way to save some money.

There are two types of online dog food coupons: those that you can print out and use at the store, and those that are to be used for internet shopping. Both varieties of dog food coupons can save you anything from a few dollars per bag, to free shipping on large orders, to 10, 25, and up to 40% off. Dog food coupons are offered by the largest, most trusted retailers, such as Petco and Pet Food Direct.

The question is... can you really save that much money using dog food coupons? Is the savings really worth going to the trouble to find them and print or use them online? Yep! You can save hundreds of dollars a year on your dogs food with dog food coupons. And the bigger the dog, the bigger the savings you will see when you use dog food coupons.
